Short Form Notice regarding virtual human rights audit

Thank you for taking part in the Virtual Human Rights Audit. It is important to Reckitt Benckiser that we understand how your employer treats you and your fellow workers, and whether they comply with applicable laws and guidance. We usually undertake these in person, but because of COVID-19 we will be doing so virtually. We will be collecting information from you and from your employer to undertake the audit, which will include information about you. We will then use that information to progress the audit, comply with our legal responsibilities and any follow up actions. We will protect your identity when we are raising any issues with your employer. You can find out more about the information we use, how we use it and your rights, in our Virtual Human Rights Audit Privacy Notice which is provided for you on our website www.rb.com, and this includes our contact details if you have any queries.
